

WHAT'S YOUR GRANTS OVERSIGHT CHALLENGE?

TOO MANY SITES TO MANAGE EFFECTIVELY

1

Managing funds and coordinating monitoring for hundreds of grantees is complicated. Synchronizing schedules, reviewing expenses, ensuring monitors know their programs, and generating dozens of complex reports requires operational skill and the right resources.

UNSUPPORTED FINDINGS OF NON-COMPLIANCE

2

When findings of non-compliance aren't grounded in documented standards, grantees push back -- and with good reason. Having knowledgeable monitors with meticulous attention to detail prevents damage to your team's reputation.

A LIBRARY OF CHANGING LAWS AND REGULATIONS

3

Hundreds of pages of laws and regulations can make testing standards in the field an intricate endeavor for your monitoring team.

WEAK TECHNICAL SUPPORT OR FRAUD RESPONSE PROTOCOLS

4

Sharing best practices improves the delivery of services in a non-punitive manner. In the rare instance in which fraud occurs, understanding the full spectrum of oversight solutions adds value.

MONITORING STANDARDS WITHOUT MEANING

5

The best oversight programs add value to the organizations they oversee. Well-designed monitoring programs select standards that drive not only compliance, but grantee performance.
